GOOD-BYE WHITSITT.

Resignation Accepted And The Church Matter is Settled.

Seminary Squabble That Threatened at One Time to Split the Church.

Louisville, Ky., May 13.—The Southern Baptist Convention met in the Warren Memorial Presbyterian Church and was called to order at 10 a. m. yesterday by Judge Jonathan Haralson, a member of the Supreme Court of Alabama, who has been President of the convention for ten years.

Deacon H. H. Hickman, of Augusta, Ga., who was present at the organization of the convention in Augusta in 1845, conducted the devotional exercises.

Dr. W. W. Landrum, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga., led in an earnest prayer.

The names of the delegates were read by Secretary Burrows. The enrollment showed about 1,000 delegates altogether present.

The election of officers being declared in order and Judge Haralson having declined a re-election, Dr. J. B. Gambrell, of Texas, nominated ex-Gov. W. J. Northen, of Georgia.

His nomination was seconded by Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, of Nashville; Dr. W. E. Hatcher, of Richmond, Va., and Rev. John D. Jordan, of Savannah, Ga.

Hon. Joshua Levering, of Baltimore, ex-Gov. J. P. Eagle, of Little Rock, and Dr. F. H. Kerfoot, of Louisville, were also nominated, but all withdrew in favor of Gov. Northen, who was elected by acclamation.

The Board of Trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary accepted the resignation of the Rev. Dr. W. H. Whitsitt as President of that institution and also as a member of the faculty. The vote on his resignation from the presidency was decisive, while he was dropped from the faculty by the close vote of 22 to 20. Dr. Whitsitt succeeded Dr. Broadus in 1895.

TWO DROWNED.

Colored Preacher and His Grandchild Lose Their Lives.

Swept Into the Swollen Waters of Little River Friday Morning.

Two lives were lost in the muddy waters of Little River just before noon Friday morning.

The river was swollen by the heavy rains and the current was swift and dangerous.

Rev. Peter Bronaugh, a venerable colored preacher, with his little grandson, John Littlepage, a child of four years of age, drove down in a buggy to water his horse at the foot of Second street. The horse drank and the buggy had been turned round to leave the river but the bank was steep and muddy and the horse began to back and slip backward into the dangerous stream. The old man tried to whip the animal up the bank, but to no purpose and the vehicle was backed into the water and caught by the current. In a moment it was overturned and man and child were struggling in the water. The old man was feeble and helpless and after a few cries for help he disappeared from view. The child was carried swiftly down the stream for nearly 500 yards, most of the time being on top of the water. Just below the bridge Chief of Police E. H. Armstrong waded in and attempted to rescue the boy, but he sank before the brave officer could reach him. The horse was carried still further, being able to reach the bottom occasionally with his hind feet, and finally pulled himself out at a shallow place near the bend in the river.

The double tragedy was witnessed by many people, who remained on the banks powerless to save the unfortunates.

Rev. Peter Bronaugh was one of the oldest colored ministers in the county. He was between 75 and 80 years of age and had been a minister for 50 years and was still pastor of one or two churches out of town.

The body of the old man was found at 7 o'clock Sunday morning, lodged in a drift caused by the overhanging boughs of a tree opposite the I. C. turntable, about 600 yards below the scene of the drowning.

The river had been dragged constantly and systematically for near two days. The body was lodged head downwards and the receding water brought the feet to view.

Up to yesterday no trace had been found of the little boy. His body may never be recovered.

Another Case 25 Years Ago.

In July, 1874, another drowning very similar occurred not far from the same place.

Rich Lindsay, an old negro man who worked about Hipkins' livery stable, drove into the swollen stream to water a horse. In the buggy were two of his grandsons. The swift current caught the buggy and turned it over and the old man and one of the boys were drowned. The other clung to the horse's mane until they passed under the old wooden bridge and W. L. Garth jumped into the water and saved both the boy and the horse, assisted by a colored man named Bill Jones. The bodies were found some distance down the river when the water fell.

Charges Abandonment.

Another divorce suit was filed in the Circuit Court Saturday. James H. Torian, col., desires a legal separation from his wife, Lizzie Torian. Abandonment is alleged. The parties were married in May 1894 and lived together until Nov. 1897.

Lost a Good Horse.

Attorney Walter S. Hale's family horse died Sunday night. The animal was a good one and was highly prized by the family.

This is the refrigerator of which Mrs. Rorer says:—"You can put in it any thing that has an odor, together with milk and butter, leaving the two latter in open vessels without contamination." Hence its name,

THE "ODORLESS"

It needs no weekly scrubbing and scalding and it saves ice. In the end it costs less than so-called refrigerators that are sold for less money.
